THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 8, 1858

A late letter from Paris says: "A prisoner in the higher walk of life has just been condemned at Lyons to be shot. Lieut. De Mercy of the French Army, belonging by birth to a noble family and son-in-law to the Marchioness de Chatelier, was condemned to death for the assassination of a brother off- April 10th, 1858. cer, a Lieutenant in the same regiment. He invited the Lieutenant to his room, and then killed him with his sabre. His defence was that he killed him in a duel fought without wi nesses. But it appeared sufficiently clear to the Court Martial that the other had not drawn his sword at all, and De Mercy was condemned. The prisoner, who is a brave man, exhibits great curage and professes to be ready to die.

In Sweden hitherto no foreigner could obtain naturalization without the consent of the King, and without acquiring the right of citizenship. A resolution of the States has now changed that state of things, as, for the future, a foreigner may be naturalised after having obtained authorization to establish his residence in Sweden and lived there three | 2 prizes of years. The law has also been modified 2 do of which formerly prevented any one not belonging to the national church of Sweden from holding public functions; persons belonging to any creed may now be professors at the Beaux Arts, and industrial institutions, and not as physicians in the ser-

Nothing adds to the appearance of a town or city so much as shade trees. They cost but very little; and every one who possesses property in town should make it a point to have trees before it. Strangers are more readily taken with a place whose streets are lined with nice trees, and the resident him- 1 grand prize $50,095 | 1 prize of $5,000 eelf becomes so attached to them that scarce- I prize of ly anything would induce him to do without | 1 them. But they are a comfort, as well as ornament. Who would not rather pay a trifling sum and have good shade before his door, than to have the hot raye of a summer's sun pouring into it?

The Duke of Marlborough, passing the gate of the Tower, after having inspected that fortress, was accosted by an ill looking fellow, thus: How do you, do my Lord Duke. ry jail in the kingdom." "I believe friend," replied the Duke, with surprise, "this is the only jail I have ever visited." "Very like," replied the fellow, "but I have been in all the rest." So saying, he touched his hat to the Duke and walked off, with the greatest sang froid imaginable. Marlborough stared, as he well might.

The Paris correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune, in a sketch of Lablache, the famous opera singer, whose death was recently appounced, says he received gold souff boxes from all the Courts of Europe, and possessed so many he became a passionate collector of snuff boxes, and in all the sales he had agents to buy for him the finest, or the most original offered. He leaves an immense and very valuable collection of snuff boxes, which will soon be dispersed by auc-

On the 17th ult., the Empress of France visited the opera for the first time since the attempted assessination. The streets were crowded, and precautions were taken to prechain of sentinels were stationed on both sides of the pathway, and the middle of the street was patrolled now and then, to keep it clear. No group of persons was allowed to remain opposite the entrance to the opera house. The usual escort accompanied the Emperor's carriage.

The celebrated wrestler Arpin, alias the "Terrible Savoyard," who has been in the habit of attending different fairs in France to display his immense strength, bas just met his death in a very sudden manner at Nismes, where he was exhibiting before an assembiage of from 12,000 to 15,000 spectators .-When wrestling he was thrown by his adversary, and came down with such violence, tin tubes, and placed in one wheel. that his back was broken, and he died almost
